Part III: To be completed by the Parent or Guardian

Advanced Placement Courses require a serious commitment to academic studies beyond that of the regular BC curriculum. In order to prevent any disappointment or misunderstanding, parents are respectfully requested to consider all aspects of the commitment when deciding whether or not to support their child’s application. It is especially important that parent and students understand Advanced Placement Courses require students to be prepared for studying material that may be more challenging than regular course work.

I have read the application form prepared by my son/daughter, including their personal statement on the back of this page. This application has been made with my full knowledge and support.
